The motto for the 1991 campaign is "Going for the Goal/Gold." "Going for the goal line symbolizes scoring touchdowns. Going for the gold symbolizes winning championships. By achieving the first objective, you obtain both objectives," explains ASU head football Coach Houston Markham.

The 1991 football guide was produced by the ASU Office of Communications and Public Affairs. The front cover photo and inside head-and-shoulder shots were taken by Robertson's Photography. Action photos were taken by Mark Miller of the Montgomery Advertiser/Alabama Journal. Typography was done by The Graphics Factory Inc., and the printing was done by Wells Printing Company.

Alabama State University

Alabama State University's rich heritage of service to the people of Montgomery, the state of Alabama, and indeed the nation began in Marion, Ala., in 1866 as the Lincoln Normal School, a private institution. Historically, this was 10 years after Lincoln issued the "Emancipation Proclamation" and eight years after 4 million slaves were freed penniless. It had as its aim, "the Higher Education of the Colored Race." In 1874, it became the first state-supported, historically black institution and was for many years the only school of its kind in the Southern states.

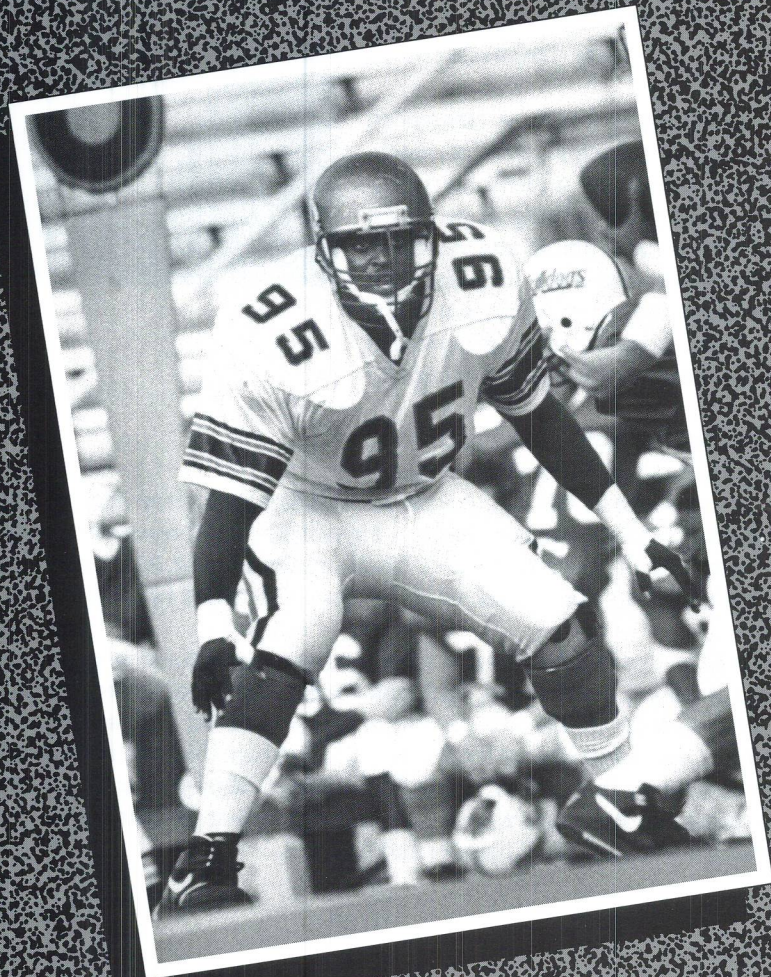

With the demands for diversification in careers and new opportunities for its graduates and the new emphasis on excellence, the university in recent years has expanded its role from that of a teacher-training institution to that of a multipurpose university whose degree-granting programs and offerings are changing and growing to respond to a dynamic society.

The university practices an open-door policy to ensure that any student who desires to develop and expand scholastic skills for personal, occupational or professional growth has the opportunity to do so regardless of socio-economic status.

The 117-year-old institution has undergone seven name changes and has been served by eight presidents. Currently, Dr. C.C. Baker, an alumnus, sits at its helm.

Today, ASU enrolls approximately 4,500 students in its seven major units: University College, the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Business Administration, the College of Education, the School of Music, the School of Graduate Studies and Continuing Education, and the Division of Aerospace Studies. The academic offerings range from the two-year associate degree, to the baccalaureate and master's degree, through the educational specialist degree programs. The physical plant is approximately 105 acres and is valued at more than $60 million.

The Administration

Dr. C.C. Baker President During The Interim

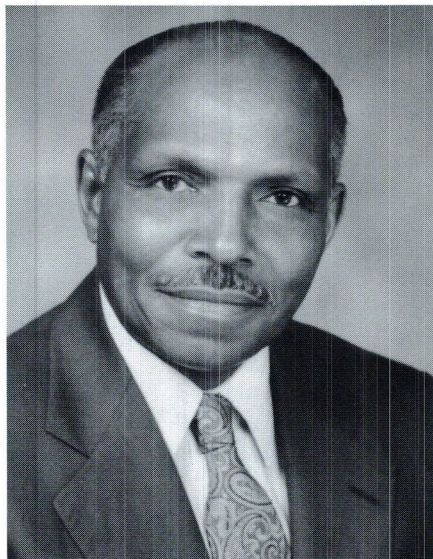

His training is in education. His calling is education. Dr. C.C. Baker spent 13 years at Alabama's Department of Education. Before retiring, he was appointed assistant superintendent. He was the first black to hold this position, which made him the highest ranking black in the State Department of Education.

After spending 16 years as classroom teacher, assistant principal, varsity coach, principal and director of a Head Start program, after three years serving as professor and administrator at Auburn and Alabama State Universities, and after 13 years with the State Department of Education, Dr. Baker has come home to serve as president of Alabama State University during the interim.

Dr. Baker left Alabama for a brief period to serve in the United States Army, spending one year in Korea in the U.S. Artillery. Dr. Baker then came back to Alabama to devote his time to educating our children. He was born and reared in Gadsden, Ala., where he received his early education. He is an alumnus of Alabama State, having received his bachelor's and master's degrees here. He earned his doctorate at Auburn University.

Dr. Baker has been widely sought after for his contributions in numerous educational organizations, workshops, and task forces. His involvement in community work is extensive. Dr. Baker is a deacon of the Hall Street Baptist Church. He is a master mason, and a member of the Kappa Alpha Psi and Sigma Pi Phi Fraternities.

He is married to the former Alma Jean Bibb of Montgomery. Mrs. Baker is a retired educational specialist with the State Department of Education. The Bakers have three children, Angelia, Chequita and Edward.

Arthur D. Barnett

Acting Athletic Director

Longtime university employee and Hornet athletic booster Arthur Barnett was recently named ASU's interim athletic director.

Barnett will continue his position as assistant professor of marketing while serving in his new position, which became vacant when Tommy Frederick retired July 31.

In addition to holding several staff and faculty positions at ASU, Barnett was also extremely active as president of the Black and Gold Club, which is ASU's athletic booster organization.

Barnett, who has been employed by ASU since 1968, brings a diverse business and athletic background to the position. For five years, Barnett served as the acting chairperson of the department of management and marketing, while also holding the rank of assistant professor.

He then put his marketing savvy to use as the director of enrollment management, where ASU's enrollment increased by 23 percent during his five-year stint, from 1985 to 1990.

He was originally hired as ASU's acting director of college relations, where he supervised both ASU's external and internal public relations efforts.

Barnett also boasts a strong background in athletic administration and coaching. While at ASU, he has held part-time roles as head tennis coach and as an assistant football coach. His football position included both coaching the receivers and coordinating recruiting efforts, among other administrative duties.

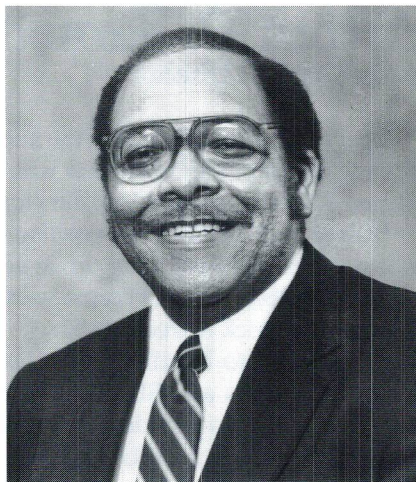

Barnett earned his bachelor's degree in commerce and social studies from ASU in 1963. He holds a master's from ASU in guidance and counseling, which he earned in 1971. He completed work on his master's in business administration at Auburn University in 1972, under a Ford Foundation Fellowship. He has completed all but his dissertation toward a Ph.D. in marketing at the University of Alabama.

Barnett, a 20-year Navy veteran, is a commander in the Navy Reserve. He is active in several civic organizations. Barnett is a board member of the Montgomery County Community Action Committee. He is also vice chairman of the Montgomery Teachers Federal Credit Union.

Barnett, a Massachusetts native, is married to the former Leah F. Nicholson of Montgomery. They have two sons – Dennis and Robert, who are both ASU students.

Houston Markham Jr. Head Coach

ASU head football Coach Houston Markham is adamant about establishing a winning program, and his determination has paid off handsomely for Hornet fans.

In 1987, Markham took over a program that had suffered five consecutive losing seasons. In Markham's four years at the helm, the Hornets have never suffered a losing season. Last season, he guided ASU's football team to its best record in 22 years, an 8-2-1 finish.

For his efforts, Markham was named the SWAC Football Coach of the Year. He was also named national coach of the year by the Pigskin Club of America and the 100 Percent Wrong Club of Atlanta, Ga.

Markham and his assistant coaches have forged this success through the ingredients with which Markham is most familiar – good people and hard work.

"The best people generally have limited potential but are overachievers," Markham said, in explaining the type of players he seeks. "Those are the ones I like to surround myself with.

"At ASU, we like to give people a chance. I realize many people have helped me along the way, and I wouldn't be where I am today without their assistance," Markham explained. "I feel obligated to, in turn, help others. Many times all a youngster needs, to realize his potential, is a little motivation.

"Nobody in America has gotten anywhere without some help. I want to provide youngsters the opportunity to succeed. That's what an institution such as Alabama State is all about," Markham said.

Markham, a 1965 Alcorn State University graduate, has worked closely with various members of ASU's faculty and staff since his arrival on campus.

"The leadership at ASU, and the environment that exists here, allows good things to happen. People have been very supportive in helping me and in promoting the entire university," Markham said.

Under Markham, the Hornets have averaged seven wins per season, and they boast a .667 winning percentage.

Coming off an 8-2-1 season and riding a seven-game winning streak, Markham says the Hornets are right on schedule, but they're in no position to coast.

"Coming off a good season and having a strong senior class only gives us a chance to win. Everything else must fall into place," Markham cautiously adds.

"We have won here with a freshman-dominated team, so we realize having a lot of seniors doesn't guarantee victories," Markham said.

"The program is at a crucial stage now," Markham observed. "Now, we're expected to do well. Instead of being the hunter, we're the hunted. We must set higher goals than just to be competitive and have winning seasons."

"The expectations are higher, the challenges are greater, and our performance must also be raised to a new level," Markham said.

"The players showed the character you find in all winners last season," Markham said. "After stumbling to a 1-2-1 start, they refused to stay down. They got back on their feet and won seven straight games."

"Now, the coaching staff faces a new challenge. Each coaching staff will be rated by its ability to continually motivate and challenge the players, and that's certainly the case this year," Markham said. "We must forget last year's success and go forward into a new season. Every team has its own personality, and it's up to the coaches to make the adjustments to bring out the best in this group of players."

Markham doesn't measure his players' success solely on what they accomplish on the gridiron.

"I believe in academics and athletics, in that order. Our players are here primarily to get an education. That's something they can take with them for life, no matter what happens in football," Markham said.

Markham, 47, learned the ropes of college coaching as an assistant coach at Jackson State University for 12 years, before accepting ASU's head-coaching job prior to the 1987 season. While Markham was at Jackson State, the Tigers established themselves as a Southwestern Athletic Conference power. Markham brought the same winning style with him to ASU.

In his rookie season, Markham led the 1987 Hornets to an 8-3 record, and he was voted the Sheridan Coach of the Year.

Markham had previously established himself as somewhat of a Mississippi high-school coaching legend. In eight years as head coach of Vicksburg High School, Markham fashioned a record of 65 wins, 16 losses and three ties. At one point, his teams won 40 consecutive games.

Markham is married to the former Annie P. Davis of Jackson, Miss. She is an instructor and supervisor in ASU's English Tutorial Center in University College. They have two children - Yolanda, 21, and Houston (Lemond) III, 19, who plays baseball for the Hornets.

Name That Team!

After World War I, the Alabama State football team played against Army football teams. In 1923, the Hornets played the 24th Infantry from Fort Benning, Ga.

It's always been true that sometimes you win, sometimes you lose. This time, Alabama State lost to the large number of large players on Fort Benning's team.

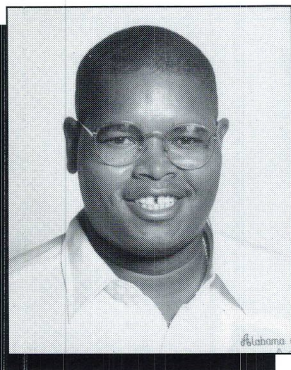

Dr. G.W. Trenholm, one of ASU's beloved and dedicated former presidents, commented on how well the team had played, despite the loss. It was during a student assembly that Trenholm said, "Our boys lost, but they piled on those big boys like Hornets."

The expression "Sting like the Hornets" came about after Trenholm's comments. Thereafter, the athletic teams have been known as the HORNETS!

This information was researched by retired professor Dr. Norman W. Walton and collaborated by the late C.J. Dunn and E.B. Campbell, and Herbert Wheeler, ASU football players during the 1920s.

Mathews caught the eye of several professional scouts, and he played briefly with the New Orleans Breakers, of the United States Football League, in 1984. After being released by the Breakers, he returned to his hometown and played in Mobile's semi-pro Dixie League. For the three seasons prior to joining ASU's staff, Mathews tutored Jackson State's running backs in his position as a graduate assistant with the Tigers.

Curtis Stapleton begins his second season as ASU's offensive line coach. Stapleton has been on ASU's coaching staff since 1987. After serving as a graduate assistant for two seasons, he was promoted to a full-time position in 1989. Stapleton is familiar with what it takes to become a winner on the intercollegiate level. As a center, he was a mainstay of three SWAC championship teams during his playing days at Jackson State University. Stapleton was a three-year starter for the Tigers. He was twice named All-SWAC, and he played in the 1984 Freedom Bowl all-star game. The Jackson, Miss., native is pursuing a master's degree in physical education, with an emphasis on exercise physiology. He is striving to become a head coach at an NCAA Division I school. Stapleton is single.

Larry Watkins

Equipment Manager

For most of two decades, few ASU athletic events have occurred that didn't somehow involve Larry Watkins.

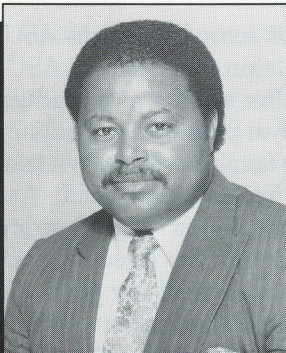

The 38-year-old Watkins, who doubles as ASU's equipment manager and baseball coach, has proven himself a man for all seasons.

The Thomasville, Ala., native's association with Hornet sports began in 1972, when he enrolled as an ASU student after earning his associate's degree from Selma University.

Early on, Watkins set the tone as a jack of all trades, working as a manager with the football team while also playing center field on the Hornet baseball team. It was the beginning of a lasting relationship between Watkins and the university's athletic department.

Watkins earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees from ASU. Immediately following his graduation from the university, Watkins was named assistant baseball coach and equipment manager. He was named head baseball coach prior to the 1982 season. Additionally, Watkins teaches a full load of physical education courses.

He has been successful in all his endeavors, being named both Southwestern Athletic Conference Baseball Coach of the Year and Sheridan Equipment Manager of the Year.

Kippy Joel Paige

Head Athletic Trainer

Kippy Joel Paige is charged with the time-consuming task of tending to the injuries of ASU's athletes. Paige, who joined the ASU athletic staff in June 1988, has helped keep the Hornets healthy with a program stressing both preventive care and proper rehabilitation.

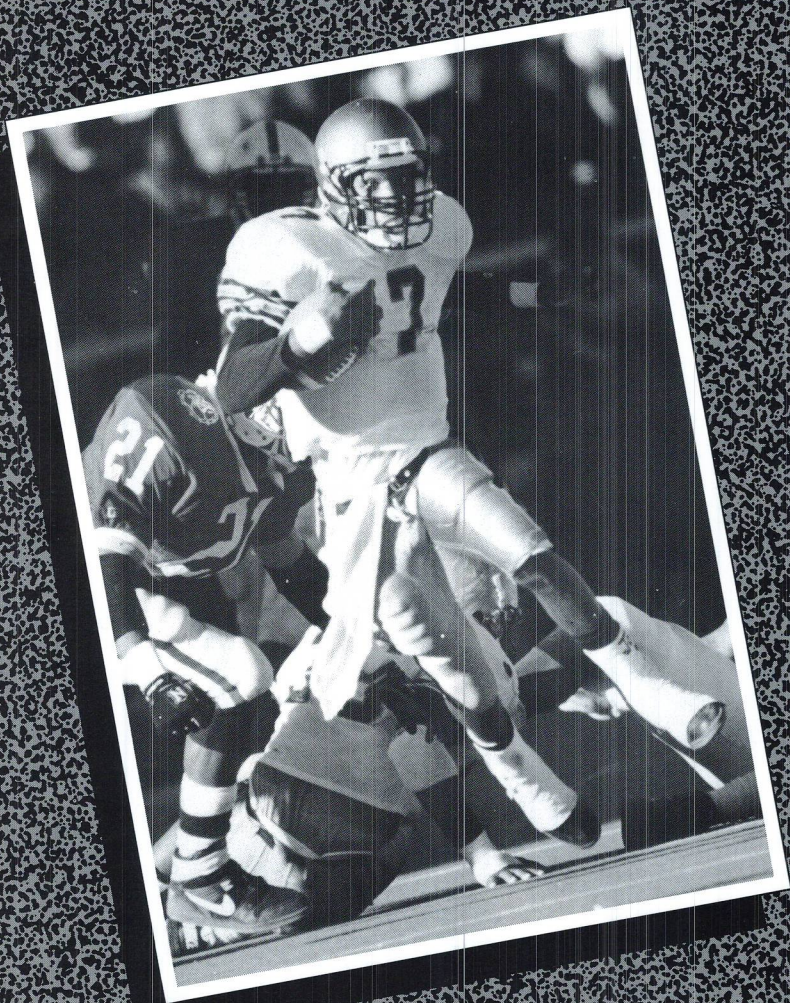

Paige learned his trade at Jackson State University. He received a degree in physical education, with an emphasis on therapeutic recreation, from the Mississippi school. He later earned his master's degree from JSU and worked on the school's athletic training staff, eventually advancing to the position of assistant athletic trainer. He worked with both football and women's sports.

Paige is also an ordained Church of God in Christ minister. He was formerly pastor of the Paradise Church of God in Christ Church in Meridian, Miss.

ASU's trainer sports an impressive athletic background. He is a relative of the late pitching great Satchel Paige. The Columbia, Miss., native is also from the same hometown as ex-NFL great Walter Payton.

1991 Football Preseason Outlook

Strong Finish Fuels High Hopes For 1991 ASU Football Season

Alabama State University's football team, fresh off its best record in 22 years, has high hopes for the 1991 season.

The Hornets return 20 starters from the 1990 team, which won its last seven games for an 8-2-1 record. ASU was only five points short of a perfect season.

Included among the returning players are nine players who received All-Southwestern Athletic Conference recognition. Eddie Robinson, a 6-foot-3, 240-pound linebacker, was named the SWAC Defensive Player of the Year. He also made first-team AP All-America and received the Toyota/BET Leadership Award, which recognizes excellence on the field and in the classroom and community service.

Robinson headlines a rugged defensive unit. The entire linebacking corps and defensive back unit return intact. The only loss from the starting lineup is defensive tackle Willie Rozier, who was a senior last season.

Defensive end Charles Northern and defensive back Emanuel Martin also were named to the first-team All-SWAC defensive unit.

Offensively, the Hornets should offer an explosive and versatile attack. Their balance was evidenced by last year's averages of 220.6 rushing yards and 220.3 passing yards per game.

Quarterback Ricky Jones triggers the attack. Jones set ASU single-season records for passing yards (2,196 yards) and total yards (2,606 yards) last season.

His favorite target is wide receiver "Downtown" Reggie Brown, who caught 48 passes for 815 yards and eight touchdowns last season.

The Hornets' ground attack will be spearheaded by tailback Rico White, the SWAC Newcomer of the Year and a first-team All-SWAC pick as a redshirt freshman last season. White broke onto the college scene by rushing for 936 yards and 12 touchdowns last season. He averaged 5.6 yards per rush.

The Hornets' offensive line is anchored by center Patrick Johnson, a senior who has received All-SWAC recognition for three straight years. The only lost offensive starter is guard Ben Murray, who made first-team All-SWAC in 1990.

ASU is coached by Houston Markham, the 1990 SWAC Coach of the Year. In four seasons, he has compiled a 28-13-2 record, and the Hornets have never suffered a losing season under him.

#57 Eddie Robinson

6-3 / 240 / Sr.

New Orleans, La.

Outside Linebacker

Brother Martin High School

3 Letters

* All-American*

Robinson is perhaps the premier football player in Division I-AA competition. He is also the epitome of the true student-athlete, as evidenced by his accomplishments both on the gridiron and away from the field of play. Robinson made it to the top last season.

He was named first-team Division I-AA All-America by Associated Press. He was also named first-team All-SWAC, the SWAC Defensive Player of the Year and Black College All-America. What makes his accomplishments more amazing is he never played a down at linebacker until his sophomore year of college. In only his second year at his new position, Robinson was rated the best in the nation. The Poor Man's Guide to the NFL Draft rates Robinson the premier linebacker in the South (all divisions) and the top defensive prospect in Division I-AA. Robinson was the first East squad player selected for the upcoming East-West Shrine football game, which will be held Jan. 19, 1992, in Palo Alto, Calif.

Three times during the 1990 season, Robinson had 10 or more tackles in a game. His best effort was a 13-tackle performance, which included 12 solo stops, in the season-opening 24-all tie against Samford Sept. 1, 1990.

Off the field, Robinson also makes a big impact. He carries a 3.58 grade point average in chemistry, and he has twice earned the Hornet football team's academic award. He is also a two-time academic All-SWAC honoree. As the crowning touch to his all-around contributions, Robinson was honored in New York City in December 1990 with the Toyota/BET National Leadership Award. Additionally, he received the Lockhart Memorial Award in May. The Lockhart Award, which is presented by the Montgomery Alumni Chapter, honors the ASU athlete who most displays leadership, character, skill, sportsmanship and team spirit.

Robinson began his college career as a walk-on, and he started every game his freshman year, in 1988, on the offensive line. He was switched to defense during spring drills in 1989.

Robinson has sterling physical skills. The 240-pounder can cover 40 yards in 4.65 seconds, giving him the speed to cover receivers. He can also bench press 390 pounds, so running at him isn't a wise move.

Robinson attends ASU on an academic scholarship, and he has continually refused to accept an athletic scholarship, so a teammate may receive the grant and also attend school.

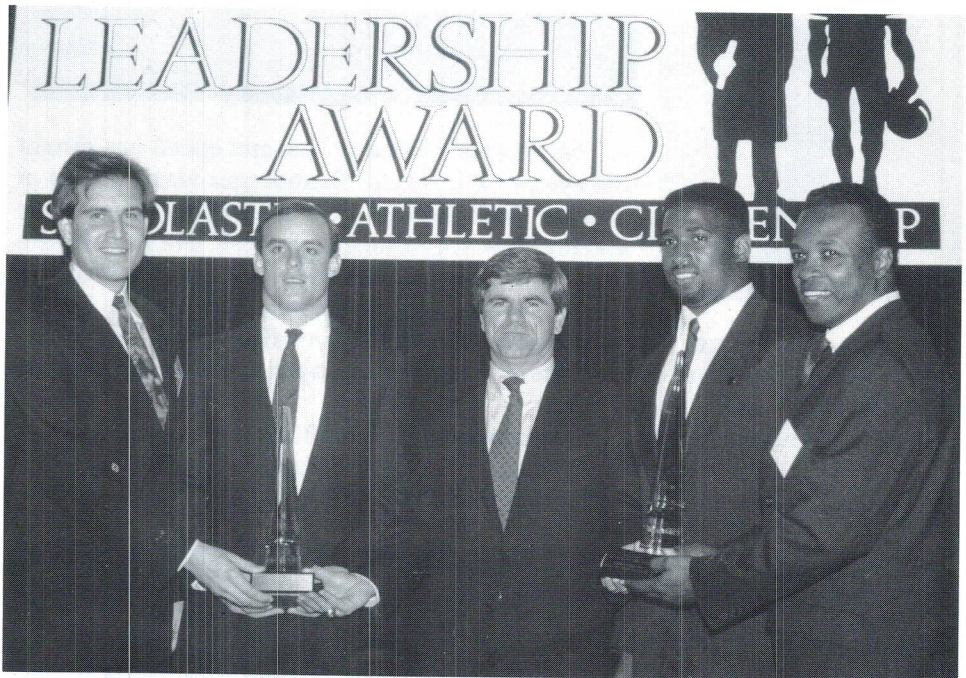

Robinson wasn't highly touted at New Orleans' Brother Martin High School. He was named his high school's top senior athlete and his team's most valuable offensive lineman. However, he didn't make all-city or all-state. He was a track-and-field standout, and he was the district champ in the shot-put, with a heave of 50-6.

Robinson was also the captain of both the football and track teams in high school.

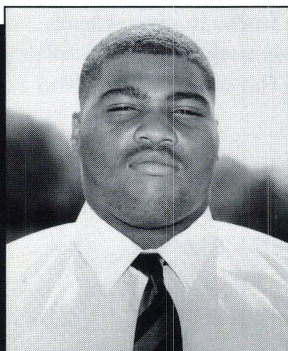

Personal: Ed Robinson Jr. was born April 13, 1970. He is majoring in chemistry. Robinson enjoys collecting tropical fish and bicycling. He is the son of Cheryl and Ed Robinson Sr. of New Orleans.

Halftime Excitement

The Marching Hornets

The 1991 Mighty Marching Hornets will feature a 190-member band, the largest group in band director Danny Davis' 10-year association with the ASU band program.

Davis begins his fourth year as the director of ASU's marching band. He was ASU's assistant band director from 1972 to 1977 before leaving for Central State University in Ohio.

Davis, a 1965 graduate of Florida A&M University, returned to ASU as band leader in 1988.

"Our goal is to develop a reputation as the best show band in the South," Davis said in discussing the 1991 season.

In 1988, the Marching Hornets were honored by the Birmingham Grid Forecasters as the top band at the Magic City Classic, and the organization named Davis the College Band Director of the Year.

In addition to the 190 musicians in the band, the 1991 edition also features a flag corps, dancers, five drum majors and a featured twirler, swelling the Marching Hornets to 220 members.

The Marching Hornets' reputation is already well known. Some of the more prominent halftime shows the band has performed include the following:

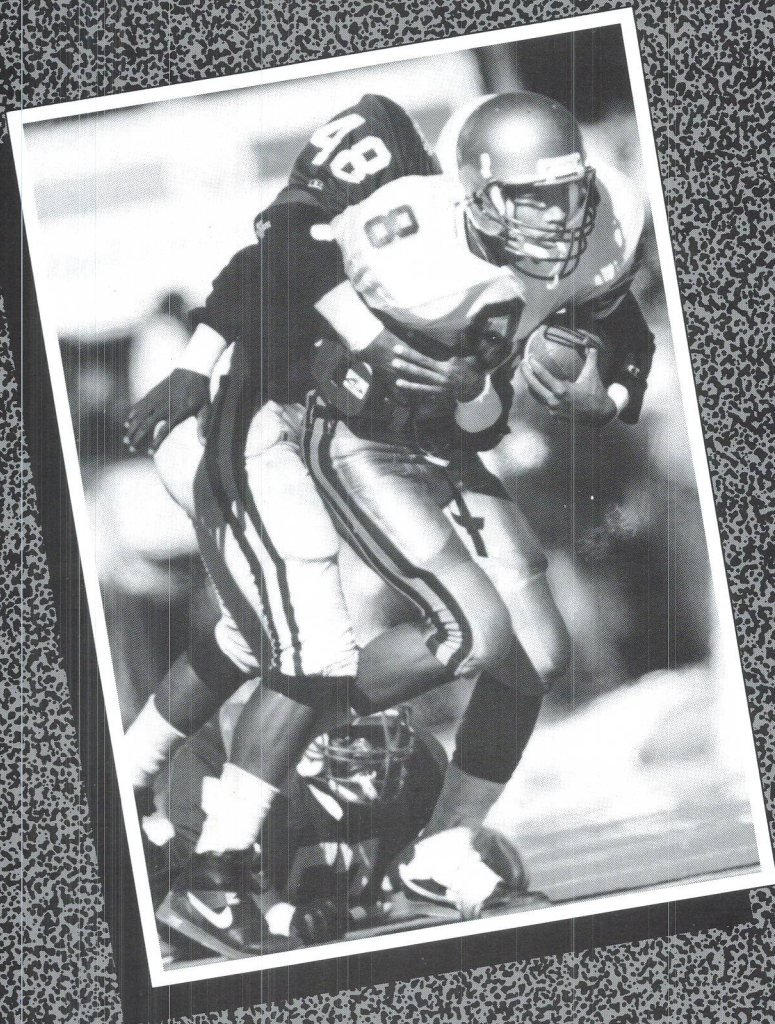

- Kansas City Chiefs, 1967 – NBC
- New Orleans Saints, 1969 – CBS
- Blue-Gray Classic, 1969 and 1977 – CBS
- Cincinnati Bengals, 1976
- New York Giants, 1977
- Atlanta Falcons, 1986

1990 Season In Review

Hornets Soar To Best Record In Past 22 Seasons

Alabama State University's football team won its final seven games of the 1990 season to post ASU's best record in 22 years.

The Hornets' 8-2-1 record was the best since the 1968 team finished with an 8-1-1 mark.

The season was a historic one for the Hornets. After struggling to a 1-2-1 start, the Hornets roared back and were unbeatable the final seven games.

Included was a 42-28 win over Jackson State University, which was ASU's first-ever over the Tigers.

ASU also pulled off a classic trifecta, winning the Gulf Coast, Magic City and Turkey Day classics.

Additionally, the Hornets scored 40 or more points in three consecutive games for the first time in ASU's 90-year football history.

"This team showed a lot of character. A lesser group of people would have folded the tents when they faced adversity early on," ASU head football Coach Houston Markham said.

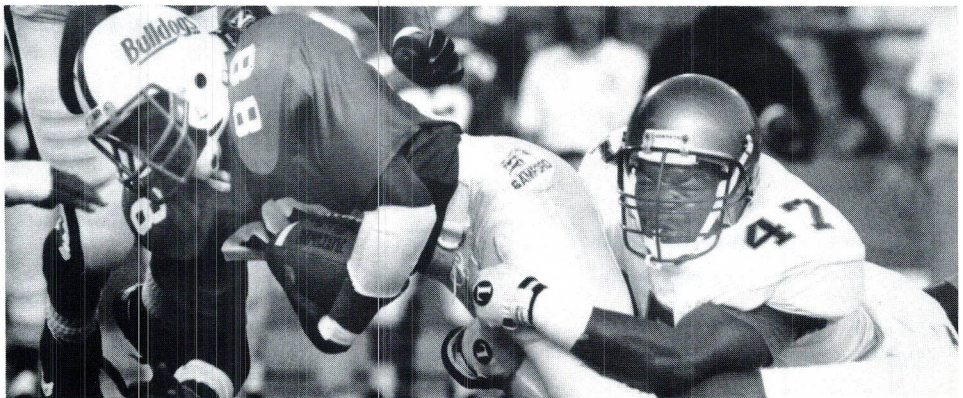

Markham was named the Southwestern Athletic Conference Coach of the Year. In four seasons, he has guided the Hornets to a 28-13-2 record. ASU has never suffered a losing season under his guidance.

Several players also received special recognition for their 1990 performances. Linebacker Eddie Robinson was named the SWAC Defensive Player of the Year. He was also honored for his athletic, academic and leadership qualities when he received the Toyota/BET National Leadership Award.

Tailback Rico White, who rushed for 936 yards as a redshirt freshman, was named the SWAC Newcomer of the Year.

White and linemen Ben Murray and Patrick Johnson all were named first-team All-SWAC on offensive. Defensive end Charles Northern, Robinson and defensive back Emanuel Martin were named first-team All-SWAC on defensive.

In all, the Hornets had six first-team and five second-team All-SWAC selections.

SWAC History

The Southwestern Athletic Conference (SWAC) was founded in 1920 and had an original membership of six colleges. The original "Super Six" consisted of Bishop College, Paul Quinn College, Sam Houston College, Prairie View College, Texas College and Wiley College. Its founding fathers were C.H. Fuller of Bishop; E.G. Evans, H.J. Evans, H.J. Mason and Willie Stams of Prairie View; Red Randolph and C.H. Patterson of Paul Quinn; G. Whitte Jordan of Wiley; and D.C. Fuller of Texas College.

Paul Quinn became the first of the original SWAC members to withdraw from the league when it did so in 1929. When Langston University of Oklahoma was admitted into the conference two years later, it began the migration of state-supported institutions into the SWAC. Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., entered the ranks in 1934, followed by Arkansas AM&N of Pine Bluff, Ark., in 1936 and Texas Southern University of Houston in 1954.

Rapid growth in enrollment of the state-supported schools made it difficult for the church-supported schools to finance their athletic programs, and one-by-one they fell victim to the growing prowess of tax-supported colleges.

Bishop withdrew from the conference in 1956, Langston in 1957 and Sam Houston in 1959, one year after the admittance of two more state-supported schools—Grambling College of Grambling, La., and Jackson College of Jackson, Miss.

The enter-exit cycle continued in 1961 when Texas College withdrew, followed by the admittance of Alcorn A&M College of Lorman, Miss., in 1962. Wiley left in 1968, the same year that Mississippi Valley State College of Itta Bena, Miss., entered. Arkansas AM&N exited in 1970 and Alabama State University of Montgomery, Ala., entered the league in 1982.

Today, the SWAC ranks among the elite of the nation in terms of alumni playing with professional teams, particularly in the sport of football. Its current membership of Alabama State, Alcorn State, Prairie View, Grambling State, Jackson State, Mississippi Valley State, Southern and Texas Southern are all Division I members, Division I-AA in football.

Championship competition offered by the SWAC includes title races for men in baseball, basketball, football, golf, outdoor track and tennis. Women's competition is offered in the sports of basketball, cross country, indoor track, outdoor track and tennis.
